Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Mrs. Robert Anderson Coats

Massive arrangements of white stock, carnations, and pom pom chrysanthemums interspersed with greenery and tall white burning tapers decorated the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church Friday evening at seven o'clock February 18 when Miss Sandra Baker became the bride of Robert Anderson Coats in an impressive double ring ceremony solemnized by Dr. Ray P. Rust.

Miss Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Baker and Mr. Coats is the son of Mrs. John Coats and the late Mr. Coats all of Bastrop.

The bodice of lace featured a round neckline that was enhanced by a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom, and long lily point sleeves. The slim skirt fell to a brief chapel train in the back and she wore a fingertip veil of illusion held in place by a crown of seed pearls. Her bouquet was of orchids and feathered carnations.

Miss Myra Baker attended her sister as maid of honor and wore a street length model of lilac crystalite fashioned on lines similar to the bride's gown. She carried a nosegay of carnations in matching hues. Bridesmaids, Misses Donna Beatty, Jeanette Moore, and Diane Pyle wore ensembles as that of the maid of honor in deeper tones of lilac. Each carried a nosegay of carnations.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Dr. John Coats and groomsmen were Malcolm Parker, Mike Baker, and Harry Chancellor. Ring bearer was Christopher Coats.

Mrs. Baker attended the wedding ceremony wearing a blue silk creation with a lace bodice and matching accessories and hat. Her shoulder carnation was of feathered carnations.

The social annex of the church was the setting for a reception following the ceremony where guests were greeted by Mrs. Clifton Beasley.

The bride's table was beautifully decorated and from here the tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Lester Anderson and punch was served by Mrs. Clifford Harrell.

Mrs. John Coats IV invited the guests to sign the white leather bound bride's book.

HELEN HELP US!

One We Overlooked

Dear Helen: There's one argument in favor of going steady that nobody has mentioned. It protects you from the creeps. If I can flash a steady ring I don't have to tell these bores to get lost. If you're not "ringed," boys figure you aren't very popular, so the not - very - popular boys start taking up a your time, and then it gets around that you're in THAT group and boy you're dead!

When you're going steady with an "in" guy, all the other "in" guys really SEE you, and when you break up, they're standing in line.

See what I mean? — Steady Betty

Dear Betty: Yes, I see what you mean... and what I see makes me all the surer that many of you kids go steady for all the WRONG reasons — like status, protection, security, acceptance, custom, and an excuse, in case you've never learned how to say "No thank you" gracefully.

Doesn't it figure that if you "go steady" for these foolish and superficial reasons, you may also carry the same false values into marriage? And if you do, then don't expect it to last any longer than the "steady" you snapped up to save you from boredom. H

Dear Helen: What do you do with a towel-snapping brother? When he connects (which is often) it hurts! — Nervous From Snapped Towels

Dear Nervous: Get your father to crack the whip. — H.

Dear Helen: Is there something you can say about mothers who every time they stop the car for an intersection or something sudden, they put out their arm to hold back the person sitting in the seat beside them? That was fine when I was two years old, but it sure looks silly now that I'm 15 and when a friend of mine is sitting with me, boy do I feel stupid! — T. W.

Dear T: "Mother's Reach" is like the habit of saying "Be Careful!" Something mothers rarely ever out grow. Don't let it bother you. Most teens have to put up with it. You kids came along before seat belts made "Mother's Reach" passe. — H.

Clay-Terrell Fight May Go to Canada

MONTREAL (AP) — Scorned by New York and kicked out of Chicago, the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight title bout skipped across the border to Montreal today for a hoped-for showing on the same date, March 29.

Bangor, Maine, Louisville, Clay's native city, and even Huron, S.D., had been mentioned as possible U.S. sites for the politically explosive fight until Main Bout, Inc., settled on Montreal Wednesday.

MHI, headed by Mike Malitz of New York and including Black Muslims among its stockholders, has the rights to the closed-circuit television and other ancillary income (movies, broadcasts, foreign showings, etc.) which usually adds up to millions, or the main share of the gross receipts.

After the Illinois Athletic Commission, by a 2-1 vote, thumbed down the fight which they originally licensed on Feb. 8, Malitz, in New York, announced Montreal, a sports-loving Canadian city with a metropolitan population of 2½ million as the fight site.

The Montreal Athletic Commission was scheduled to meet today to determine whether a license would be issued for the bout in the 15,000-seat Montreal Forum.

Loren Cassina, owner of All-Canada Sports Promotions Ltd. in Toronto, has made an application for the bout.

It was an outburst by Clay that apparently doomed the bout in Chicago.

Shortly after Clay's draft board in Louisville reclassified him to 1-A and made him eligible for the military draft, the 24-year-old undefeated champion made remarks about the war in Viet Nam — remarks called "unpatriotic" and "disgusting" by Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois.

Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago also said he did not want the fight in the city.

Clay refused to make an apology suitable to the governor and the commission and the heat was on. William G. Clark, Illinois' attorney-general found technical irregularities in the licensing of the fight and other reasons to deny a permit, and then tossed the matter back into the commission's lap.

Chairman Joe Triner and Joe Robichaux voted to deny the permit application while Lou Radzienda cast his vote in favor of the fight.

In Miami, Fla., Clay, who prefers to be called by his Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, said he was disappointed the fight would not be in the United States.

He added, however, that "if Illinois wanted to call off the fight, they have a right to."

Terrell, the 26-year-old Chicagoan who is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association, blamed the Illinois Commission's action "on Clay's big mouth."

"How can anyone tell me he has common sense after he's played around with a million dollars that way," said Terrell at his training camp in Pleasantville, N.Y. "He made the Illinois Commission look foolish by not apologizing."

Scoring May Be High in NCAA Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — There could be some high-powered scoring in the NCAA basketball tournament this season if regular season performances mean anything.

The nation's top four scoring teams already are set for the tournament which begins next week.

According to statistics released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, Houston has the best game average at 100 points while St. Mary's is second with 99.5, Oklahoma City third at 98.2 and Loyola of Chicago fourth at 98.

The averages of Houston and Syracuse are better than the all-time record of 98.4 points a game set by Miami of Florida last year.

Dave Schellhase of Purdue continues to lead the individual scoring race, averaging 32.5. Dave Wagner of Idaho State is second with 31.7 and McEgan's Charlie Russell third at 30.2.

Bay Taking Aim at Last Year's Champs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Last year when the Class A state high school basketball tournament got down to just two teams, they were Bay and Rector.

Tonight Bay takes aim at defending champion Rector in quarterfinals of this year's Class A meet.

Two quarterfinal games were played Wednesday night, with Lavaca edging Augusta 52-51 in the A tournament, and Altheimer routing Grady 79-57 in the B tournament.

In first-round games, Lead Hill topped Lockesburg 82-51 and Marmaduke got past Hector 47-34 in the B tournament; and Bay downed Marianna 50-47 and Rector topped Emerson 56-56 for A quarterfinal berths.

A substitute popped in a 15-foot jump shot with 11 seconds left to give Lavaca its one-point margin. The field goal was the only scoring in the game for the reserve, Terry Johnson.

Johnny Perryman led Lavaca with 22 points and Stan Lockhart matched his scoring performance for the Augusta squad.

Bay led Marianna 48-47 with 51 seconds remaining. Marianna missed a two-point chance with 8 seconds left, and Bay controlled the ball and got two free shots to ice the victory.

A pair of Rector players pumped in a total of 52 points in the victory over Emerson. Teddy Glaub scored 28 and Allen Pruett got 24 for the winners.

Altheimer, after leading Grady 30-29 at the half, broke loose in the final two periods to turn the game into a runaway. Harold Givens led Altheimer with 22 points and Charles McLemore had 19 for Grady.

Lead Hill threw a triple scoring punch at Lockesburg. Mike Green paced the fast breaking Lead Hill offense with 30 points. Donald Williams got 24 points and Eddie Farmer added 23 for the winners.

Marmaduke scored its victory over Hector when Jerry Hoggard put in a layup with 41 seconds to go. Hector, which was ahead 29-24 at the half, was led by Jerry Bynum with 16 points. Perry Whitaker scored 22 for Marmaduke.

Revenge Sweet for Hawks of St. Joseph

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was sweet revenge for the St. Joseph's Hawks of Philadelphia.

The Hawks, seventh-ranked nationally in The Associated Press college basketball poll, had been beaten twice last year by the eighth-ranked Providence Friars, once in the regular season and again in the NCAA East regionals.

They met for the first time this season Wednesday night at the Palestra in Philadelphia and the Hawks crushed the Friars 86-67 for their ninth straight victory and a season record of 22-4.

"Revenge, revenge, revenge," chanted the crowd of 9,246 throughout the game as Matt Guokas with 21, and Cliff Anderson with 19, combined for 40 points in leading the rout. Jim Walker's 23 points led Providence, now 21-4.

The Hawks plan another revenge night against the Friars Monday night at Blacksburg, Va., where they meet in the first round of this season's NCAA tourney.

The game topped off a double-header. In the opener, LaSalle upset Louisville 96-92 behind Hubie Marshall's 42 points. The Explorers, on the upgrade from a dismal 4-14 mark, now have won six in a row. Wade Houston scored 30 for Louisville.

Unbeaten Texas Western and No. 2 in the AP poll made it 23 straight with a 73-56 road romp over New Mexico State. Another NCAA-bound team, Syracuse, similarly won on the road against Niagara 93-78 behind Dave Bing's 27 points and 16 rebounds.

A last-second basket by Keith Swagerty gave U. of Pacific a 63-63 regulation tie against San Jose State as he led the Tigers to a 77-73 overtime road triumph over the Spartans.

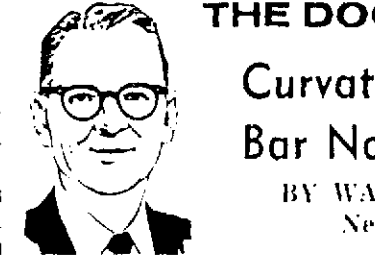

Swagerty, a 6-foot-7 junior, scored 39 points altogether including the basket that put the Tigers ahead for good in the overtime 73-71.

Denver's Pioneers ended their first winning season in six years by defeating the Air Force at home 86-81. Harry Hollines scored 32 points and set a one season school record of 633 as DU ended the campaign with a 14-1 record.

Conversely, Notre Dam ended its worst season in years at 5-21 by losing to Creighton at South Bend 72-68.

Q—What causes curvature of the spine and what can be done about it? Can it affect your health?

A—Lateral curvature (scoliosis), backward curvature (swayback or lordosis) and forward curvature (humpback or kyphosis) may be caused by such diseases as poliomyelitis and muscular dystrophy, by poor posture or, in some persons, may occur without any discoverable cause.

When the curvature is discovered in childhood and is sufficiently acute to warrant treatment, a brace or body cast may be applied. If the cause is known, this should be treated. In some children an operation (spinal fusion) to straighten the back and make it rigid may be necessary. If corrective measures are not taken in childhood, little can be done to improve the spine but, unless the degree of curvature is extreme, a person with this condition can lead a normal, healthy life.

Q—How can I rid my two little boys of head lice?

A—A shampoo that contains hexachlorocyclohexane, rubbed vigorously over the scalp for five or 10 minutes, depending on the length of the hair, will remove the lice but not the nits. These are best removed with a fine tooth comb. After the shampoo and the combing, be sure to send the bedding, especially the pillow cases, to the laundry.

Q—What is the cause of paniculitis and what can be done for it?

A—Paniculitis is a condition of the skin in which there is inflammation of the fat tissue. It is seen most often in women who are between 25 and 40. Common locations are the legs, thighs, arms, abdomen and breasts.

The acute inflammation often subsides without treatment, but recurrences are common. Cortisone speeds recovery but, if the disease leaves an abnormally depressed area, this may have to be replaced by a graft of normal skin and the underlying layer of fat.

NIT Gets the Consolations

By SANDY PADWE

NEW YORK (N.E.A.)—All around the city there are places like Birdland... the Astor Hotel... Times Square.

Once they were symbols of New York's power, its glitter.

Now, they are dreary, drab landmarks of a past era.

Time has its way of dulling even the greatest of institutions. There are no exceptions.

In sports, the biggest victim around New York is the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

Once the best postseason tournament, the NIT has deteriorated into a mixture of second, third and fourth bests.

Last year, the selection committee was forced to go even lower to fill its 12-team field.

It's not that Madison Square Garden has lost its attraction.

Yerger Takes Close One From McRae

By CALVIN MULDEW
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yerger's 76-65 win over McRae High of Prescott, put them closer to becoming State Champions when the District 3 Tournament got under way last evening in Rosston.

Yerger took the lead early in the first period of the game and held it without any danger of McRae overtaking them until the 4th period. Standokes made the 12 points in the period. Stuart hit 9, and Mauldin's 2 points gave Yerger their 23-15 lead in the first period.

The 37-25 point lead Yerger had on McRae wasn't the only advantage they had at the half. McRae had a total of 13 team fouls to Yerger's 9, causing four of their best players to foul out in the final quarter.

Stuart continued to shoot well from outside and Standokes was getting rebounds, making every shot possible. This helped Yerger to sustain the lead at the end of the period, 58-43.

McRae came within 10 points of Yerger in the top of the final period. But Dansby, Langston, Royston, and Young, the top of McRae, fouled out.

Yerger took advantage of McRae's weakness and put 18 more points on their side of the board to win 76-65.

Tonight, Yerger will play Gordon at Gordon for the 3rd round of the District 3 Tournament. Gordon was the winner of the first game last night, 72-49 over Rosston.

Fights Last Night

BIRMINGHAM, England —

Love Allotey, Ghana, outpointed Boualem Belouard, Algeria, 10, featherweight.

It's simply that the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tournament has grabbed the best teams, and rightly so, because the NCAA tournament decides the national championship.

The Garden is still a great place to play," says Frank McGuire of South Carolina.

Coaches from all over the country want to bring a team in there.

And when the new Garden opens in the fall of 1967 it will be an even bigger thing for a team to play in New York. But the NCAA has the championship and the NIT doesn't. It's that simple.

"If some more of the conferences allowed the second-place teams to go to the NIT, it would help. In some cases, like last season when Duke lost our postseason tournament, the NIT would be getting the best club. What if it happens again this year? Duke has a bad night and gets clipped. Then they're finished for the season. A team with a great record has no place to go. It happened in the Southern Conference last year, too, with Davidson."

Fred Lewis, whose Syracuse team will play in the NCAA tournament this year, has another view.

"There's a greater emphasis on the NIT than there used to be. But I don't have the operation. I could not have played."

He said he hopes to be able to play by the end of the training season.

While Mantle's extended absence dampened Yankee prospects for a comeback from last year's sixth-place finish in the American League, Minnesota's Al Simmons were heartened by the apparent resurgence of second baseman Bobby Kennedy.

The former Purdue quarterback, who lost his second base job two years ago when sidelined by knee troubles has been the early surprise of the Twins camp. He credits a winter conditioning program for strengthening the knee, which was operated on last year, and hopes to regain his 1962 form, when he hit 269 for Minnesota.

The Giants signed first baseman Willie McCovey to an estimated $40,000 contract, leaving pitchers Juan Marichal and Bob Shaw, and outfielder Jesus Alou outside the fold.

Ken Harrelson signed with the Athletics and Manager Alvin Dark set goals of 30 home runs and 110 RBI for the big first baseman. The Red Sox announced the signing of four players, including outfielder Carl Yastrzemski, while the Orioles were cheered by the arrival of outfielder Boog Powell, who reported at a trim 211 pounds.

sis," he said, within the NCAA to get the game on the college campuses, and therefore member schools with a choice usually take the NCAA.

Personally, if I had the choice I'd rather win the NIT than be a runner-up in the NCAA. But I guess I'm from the old school that believes college basketball revolves around what happens in the Garden. There has always been a certain feeling when you take a team in there."

There used to be a certain feeling in Birdland, too, when Glenn Miller was playing or when Billy Rose held one of his after-theater parties at the Astor.

And at the Garden, Adolph Rupp used to bring his Kentucky teams in and there was Hank Luisetti from Stanford throwing those one-hand push shots.

Now the championship games are played in Kansas City, Portland or College Park, Md.

The consolation games are in the Garden.

Prosecution Says Braves Were Forced

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The prosecution in Wisconsin's anti-trust suit against baseball has adopted a strategy of painting the owners of the Braves as a group of men forced into moving the club to Atlanta because "they had to make money fast."

Willard Stafford, special counsel for the state and the legal team's chief prosecutor, continued Wednesday to try and link the "compelling financial personal problems" of the Braves' owners with their decision to transfer the franchise.

Stafford said as much in his opening statement when he remarked that "the Braves moved because the new owners wanted to pay off indebtedness of $3 million which they had created."

And he proceeded with that line as he called his first witnesses — Ralph Delforge, former secretary-treasurer of the Braves, and Gordon Volz, a certified public accountant from Madison, Wis.

Delforge testified that the club showed cash profits in 1963 and 1964—part of the period in which the team's owners contend they lost $3.5 million.

Volz made some projections on Delforge's figures. They were highly technical. They also were highly objectionable to the defense.

Man 104 Signs for Medicare

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — "You never can tell when a fellow might get sick," said a 104-year-old man as he signed up for medicare benefits.

Hope Unlikely to Get Higher Than 4th Spot

Div 4AA basketball plays out its final week of the regular schedule this week with games Tuesday and Thursday night. The Crossett Eagles need only one victory in either of their last two games to wrap up their second sports title of the current school year.

The Smackover Bucks, in second place, could tie only if Crossett lost both games and the Bucks won both games.

The Hope Bobcats seem a certainty to win third place.

Warren's Lumberjack and Fairview's Cardinals are battling for the fourth spot — and a state tourney berth with the first three teams. The Cardinals and Lumberjacks play Tuesday night. A Jacks victory will give them the fourth spot. A Cardinal victory coupled with a Fairview win over Malvern Thursday will give them fourth spot. If Fairview should win Thursday night and both teams win Thursday night, they would be tied and a playoff needed on Saturday night.

Recent results: Hope 92, Malvern 70; Smackover 56, Arkadelphia 50; Hope 79, Warren 71; Crossett 91, Camden 43; Smackover 52, Magnolia 42; Warren 105, Camden 48; Smackover 71, Arkadelphia 62; Crossett 79, Fairview 63; Fairview 61, Arkadelphia 55; Hope 84, Malvern 72.

Tuesday night games: Magnolia at Arkadelphia; Malvern at Camden; Smackover at Crossett; Warren at Fairview. Thursday night: Crossett at Magnolia; Camden at Hope; Fairview at Malvern; Warren at Smackover.

Fairview's Barry McMahan still holds a slim lead in the individual scoring race. The Fairview junior has 311 points. Charles Ashley of Arkadelphia is second with 301 points. Ingram of Hope is third with 282.

The Standings:

	W	L
Crossett	13	1
Smackover	11	3
Hope	10	5
Warren	8	6
Fairview	7	7
Arkadelphia	7	8
Malvern	4	10

Ryun's Game---Beat the Clock

Only 18, He's Best American Miler

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It is 5:30 a.m. and the first cracks of Kansas dawn are still an hour or more away when Jim Ryun rolls back the covers to begin his day.

It is a day that begins the same way it ends—with hard work, with tension and with pressures other college students never know.

Jim Ryun, 18, a freshman at the University of Kansas, is America's greatest miler.

Better than his predecessors at Kansas, Glen Cunningham and Wes Santee; better, too, than Dyrol Burleson and Jim Grelle and Tom O'Hara.

Right now there are only a few in the world with better times, like Jurgen May of East Germany, Kipchoge Keino of Kenya and Michel Jazy of France.

But everyone knows it is a matter of months before this powerful 6-1, 155-pound youngster from Wichita, Kan., passes them.

"There's no question," says John Whetton, the English miler, "that he's the best in the world at this distance right now."

Jim Ryun is uncomfortable when he hears statements like that because underneath the glamor and the headlines there is a quiet, constrained person who would greatly enjoy the life of the average college freshman. If only he could lead it.

His life at Kansas is quite regimented, but is no comparison to his life away from the campus when he is competing. Outsiders would think the government had transferred Fort Knox to his hotel room.

He takes no calls, especially from newspapermen, spending as much time as possible studying and resting.

"We have to do it," says John Mitchell, Kansas' assistant track coach who accompanied Ryun to a recent race in New York. "If we didn't, he'd never get any rest and he'd never get any time to study."

After a race, or if you've been lucky enough to grab a few minutes of his time during his warmups, you find such a soft-spoken kid that it's puzzling where he finds all his competitiveness.

On the track, he is a great competitor with a finishing kick that has quickly transformed many a dull race.

"Jim is on the speed side of the mile," says his coach Bob Timmons, who also coached Ryun at Wichita East High School. "As young as he is with this base speed, his true potential may be in the 800."

"But Jim has made the statement that he prefers the long side of the mile, meaning the two-mile. So I think there will be some experimenting done. I think it would be a mistake to just limit him, at this age, to one event."

Ryun began his assault on the 4-minute mile in 1963, his sophomore year in high school. He was at 4:20 in April, but by June he had run a 4:07.8.

"As a junior high student," he recalls, "I had no idea that I would be a miler. I entered high school with the idea of being a 440 man and maybe to letter in my senior year."

A year later, in June 1964, he had cracked the 4-minute barrier with a 3:59.0 at Compton, Calif.

Then came his surprising third place finish in the final Olympic Trials which carried him to Tokyo just inches ahead of Jim Grelle.

A cold in Tokyo left him in a weakened condition, so the 1964 Olympics became just a bad memory. The coming year, however, would compensate for the disappointment.

With Timmons at the University of Kansas as an assistant coach, J. D. Edmiston became Ryun's coach at Wichita East.

"The only real change," Jim said, "was that we worked a lot more on speed than anything else. This helped my finish a lot more."

In May 1965, he had run a 3:58.3 and followed this with a 3:58.1 at Modesto. Then came a third place 3:56.8 in Compton before he set the American record with his 3:55.3 by defeating the Olympic champion Peter Snell and Grelle in the AAU mile.

Reunited with Timmons now at Kansas, Ryun works out twice a day, at 6 a.m. and again at 2:30 p.m.

"In the morning," Timmons said, "there is about a 45-minute workout. The afternoon averages two hours. We do speed work as well as distance work. But even on the days when we're running in the hills, there is time for speed work."

In addition there is time allotted for calisthenics and weight training.

But the problems remain finding enough time for school-work, trying to be as tactful as possible with the press and public and trying to enjoy college life.

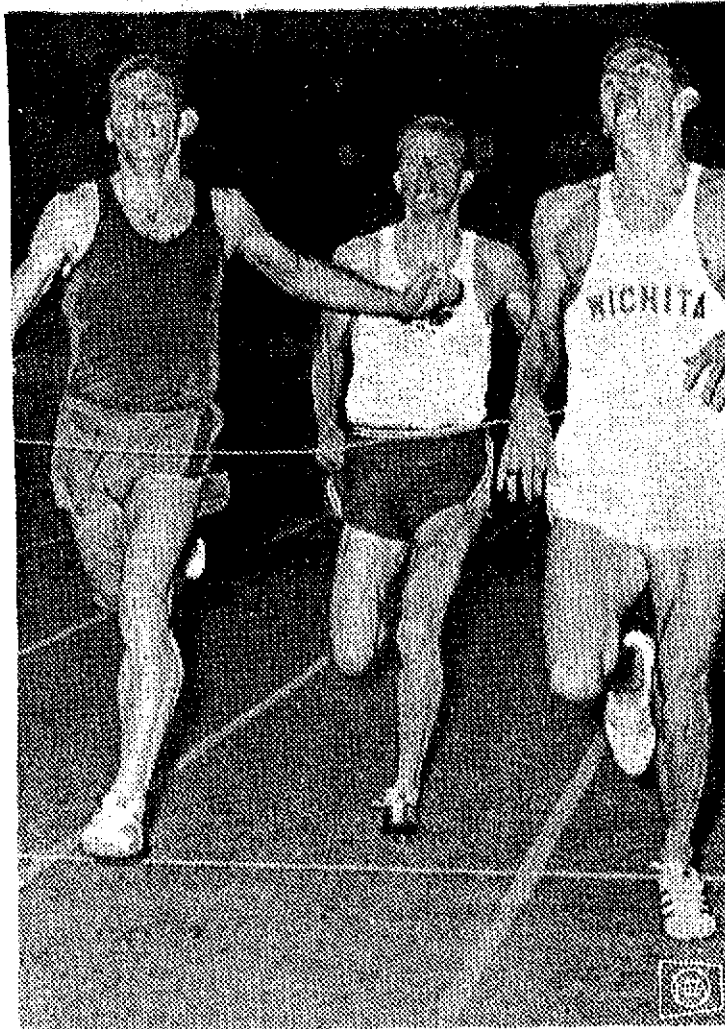

"I have thought about what happened to Snell," Ryun says, "but pressure is just something you have to accept in sports. That is what I am trying to do."

"With Snell it apparently got very bad, to the point where it made him lose interest in his running."

Now Jim Ryun faces the same situation. And he is only 18.

Kansas City A's

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PITCHING—The A's surprised everyone at the end of last season by reaching a level of respectability which was just a dream in the spring. Jim (Catfish) Hunter, a 19-year-old rookie, finished 8-8. Roland Sheldon was 10-8, Fred Talbot, 10-12. If those three continue their improvement and lefty John O'Donoghue can lower his ERA (3.89) a bit, Kansas City will have its best starting staff in years. The bullpen remains a strongpoint with John Wyatt. Jim Dickson (a rookie who appeared in 68 games), Jack Aker (best ERA on the club with 3.18) and Wes Stock. An added starter may be Lew Krause who had a very strong winter in the Venezuelan League. Rating—C+.

INFIELD—It's amazing when you realize that Wayne Causey, the most respected member of the A's, may have a tough time cracking the starting infield if Alvin Dark decides to use Bert Campaneris at shortstop. Campaneris had an excellent year in 1965, batting .270 and stealing 51 bases. He literally can play every position and did in one game. Ken Harrelson is set at first base. He led the club in home runs (23) and RBI (66) last season. Talented Dick Green is at second and steady Ed Charles is at third again. Rating—B.

OUTFIELD—Jose Tartabull hit .312 in half a season after his recall from the minors and stole 11 bases. He finally appears ready for daily major league play and will be in center or left field, depending where Campaneris plays. If he is used in the outfield, Campaneris would be in center field. Mike Hershberger is set for right field. Tom Reynolds, a .237 hitter as a rookie, is the swing man. Rating—C.

CATCHING—Bill Bryon showed promise last year, hitting .252 with 14 home runs, but defensively he does not rate with Phil Roof who was obtained from Cleveland for Jim Landis. Roof's problem is hitting. He doesn't. Rene Lachemann, who hit nine home runs in his rookie year, will be the third catcher if he isn't sent out for some steady work. Rating—C.

BENCH—Barren. Very barren. Larry Stahl, who had a brief trial last season, is a possible outfield replacement. Ron Stone, up from the minors is a promising rookie outfielder. After that the A's are down to Charley-O and he has trouble going to his right. Rating—D.

SUMMARY—The circus atmosphere surrounding the A's the last few seasons will disappear now that Alvin Dark is the manager. He's a serious, dedicated baseball man, and will utilize the A's speed to the maximum. There will be plenty of running and stronger defense to make up for the lack of power. Dark is the kind of guy who will extract every bit of talent from this team, and there is enough to make the climb from the American League basement. Prediction—9th.

DIFFERENT RULE—Jack Rule has a few of his own rules about putting. For putts under 10 feet he uses a bent club. For the longer ones he uses the conventional putter. Here he gets set for a shot with the bent club.

Golfers Can Tell Some Whoppers

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The hole-in-one, or rather the near hole-in-one, probably has spawned as much recklessness with the truth as the wildest and biggest fish imaginable.

Any golfer knows this, which explains why Bob Mitera is likened to a criminal when he tells his hole-in-one story.

I got so tired of talking about my hole-in-one," said Mitera, a 21-year-old senior at Creighton University in Omaha, Neb. "Every time I'm asked about it, somebody always says, 'Come on, Bob, who you trying to kid?'"

Mitera is not fibbing. His story has been checked and re-checked. He did indeed hit a 444-yard hole-in-one, the longest ace ever recorded as well as one of the longest tee shots ever measured.

In the days after he hit it,

RECORD-BREAKERS—Bob Mitera, of Omaha, Neb., caresses the driver he used to hit the longest hole-in-one ever recorded, a 444-yard double eagle smash aided by a 50 mile-an-hour wind.

Last Oct. 7, Mitera found golf authorities from everywhere lurking around asking questions of his friends, checking witnesses on the course and tape-measuring the hole on ing the whole thing was a hoax. It would have been much easier that way."

When Mitera was in New York to be interviewed for his feat, the emcee's introduction went like this:

"Bob Mitera's unbelievable accomplishment... er, I mean, it was beyond belief... I mean."

"That's O.K.," Mitera interjected. "I'm used to it."

Mitera says that people seem more willing to believe that his double eagle ace was carried into the cup by a friendly snake. Or they ask, "Was it a concrete fairway?" Was it a short-cut shot on a dogleg hole?

"The trick," he explained, "was a strong wind, gusts up to 50 miles an hour. I shouldn't even have been playing that day."

I teed the ball high, with the wind at my back and took a healthy cut. The ball was pretty well hit. It just got up into that slipstream and took off."

The hole is 444 yards straightaway. About 300 yards off the tee the fairway drops sharply down to the green.

Mitera's drive cleared the knoll, got a good roll onto the green and trickled into the cup.

A playing partner, Dennis Houlihan, had hit first. Houlihan's tee shot, as it turned out, went over the green.

Mitera normally is not a big hitter. He stands 5-6 and weighs 160. Friends teased him as a boy, that he should stay off golf courses because of a good wind came along, he'd have to take a train back.

Mitera shot 74 the day he broke the hole-in-one record held by Lou Kretlow, former major league pitcher. Kretlow aced the 427-yard 16th hole at Oklahoma City, Okla., Lake Hefner Golf Club on March 23, 1961.

The little Nebraskan, who wants to be a lawyer and not a golf professional, said he was "absolutely incredulous" when, after a long search he found his ball in the cup. Kretlow didn't believe it, either when he heard about it.

Oh! The name of the course where Mitera set a mark that could stand for all-time? A place called Miracle Hill Golf Club.

KEEPER PLAY—Joe Namath is back at Alabama completing work for his degree. He also finds time for a bit of relaxation on the basketball court.

BIG LEAGUER—Emmett Ashford, pictured umpiring a charity game at Anaheim, Calif., will become the first Negro umpire in the major leagues this spring. He will work the American League

If Must Be Spring Paper Mill Boom Political Rabbits

I must be Spring. The migratory birds I keep as pets behind my house are restless and full of fight.

Among them is a 4-year-old pair of Canada Geese, aloof and polite. Never a cross word between this ever-lovin' couple—until day before yesterday. Then without warning Mr. Honker stabbed Mrs. Honker with his beak, and relations cooled fast. I don't know what she said to him, but it got results.

That was day before yesterday. And yesterday there was a new chapter. I was feeding the Canadas and the mallards, when I noticed that Mr. Honker seemed to be following me around, leaving his mate at some distance. I thought the quarrel persisted and he was feeling lonesome. I was wrong.

Outside the fence the white setter that has been visiting my garage since mid-winter, eyed the Canadian curiously. Suddenly the gander whirled, hissed, and charged the fence. The dog did a cartwheel and vanished. Then the gander turned and looked at me in a measuring manner.

Lonesome? Not on your life. It's Spring. The sap is rising—and wildlife is full of fight!

Public statements point to the expected construction of paper mills on both the Texarkana and Hope sides of Red River. While we have no information beyond what has already appeared in the press, the paper-making industry's figures show a first-class boom is under way—and so the expansion of paper-making plants is entirely likely.

Here are some figures for newsprint, one of the major products of the paper mills—newsprint being the coarse white paper on which newspapers are printed. One of our trade organizations, Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn., reports in a Feb. 26 bulletin:

U. S. and Canadian newsprint production in January was 872,415 tons, up 9.4% over a year ago.

Shipments were 800,773 tons, up 8.9%.

Stocks on hand were 1,041,582 tons, down .2%.

President Johnson solemnly announces plans to create a new federal department of transportation—which is not so solemn when you spell it out for what it really is: An expansion of the federal debt in order to hire more political stooges at public expense.

Not is it surprising. When the Federal government has run in the red ever since the end of World War II, under Democrats and Republicans alike, it is only natural that bureaucrats should multiply like rabbits.

Cong Ambush Tactics Used on Land, Water

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Using ambush tactics on water and land, the Viet Cong shot up a small oil tanker near Saigon today and killed at least 11 Vietnamese policemen in the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone.

In a vacant lot or Saigon's outskirts, authorities found the bodies of three young government employees executed by the Viet Cong. Their hands were tied behind their backs and they had been shot.

U.S. officials reported that air operations against North Viet Nam and in the South cost three American planes in the past three days. An A-4 Skyhawk and an F-4 Phantom jet, both from the 7th Fleet carrier Ranger, disappeared in heavy overcast over the North on Tuesday and their three crewmen were listed as missing.

A light spotter plane crashed in the South Wednesday 40 miles northwest of Qui Nhon on a reconnaissance flight for the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division. Two Americans aboard were killed.

On the ground, U.S. forces combed the jungles and rice paddies for the Communists but stirred up little action. The 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade killed six Viet Cong in operations around Tuy Hoa, a coastal town 240 miles northeast of Saigon. The paratroopers came upon two Viet Cong dispensaries, a loudspeaker system and a bird, which they proudly identified as the first enemy carrier pigeon captured in the war.

Faubus Sees Delay in 4th Dist. Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said Wednesday that court action may delay the 4th District special congressional election until the regular July primaries.

He said the regular party primaries and the special primary may have to be held at the same time. If so, he could call a special election to fill the district's vacant seat, Faubus said.

Travis Beeson of Camden, a Republican, filed a suit seeking to clarify the boundaries of the district for the special election. Chancellor Murray O. Reed ruled that the election would have to be in the 20 counties of the reappointed district, but the Democratic Party appealed the decision to the state Supreme Court. The Democrats had planned to hold their primary April 18 in the 28-county district as it was before reappointment.

"We are waiting on the outcome of litigation to determine whether the election should be held in the old district or the new one," Faubus said, in explaining why the election may be delayed until July.

The district has been without representation since Feb. 2 when Oren Harris left the U.S. House to become a federal judge.

He Meant 'Go Fly a Kite'

NEW YORK (AP) — A judge told a New York publicity man to "go fly a kite" and he meant it.

William H. Yolen, president of the International Kite Flyers Association, got a summons last fall for flying a kite with an eight-foot banner attached to it, calling for the election of John V. Lindsay for mayor.

Judge James L. Watson ruled Tuesday that Yolen can go fly a kite any time or any place.

"They passed a law against kites because kites frighten horses," Yolen said. "Well, that doesn't make any sense in the 20th century."

Reprieve for Slayer of 6 Is Sought

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Attorneys for Frank Harris, convicted of murdering six people, said they would file an execution eve petition today to keep Harris from going to the electric chair.

Harris, 59, is scheduled to die at dawn Friday. He was convicted in the deaths of Mrs. Leonard Dever and four of the six children. That conviction got him the death sentence, and a conviction in the death of Leonard Dever got him a life in prison sentence.

The Devers died and their farmhouse near Trumann burned on the night of Dec. 21, 1963.

Harris has maintained his innocence.

His attorneys said Wednesday they would file a habeas corpus petition today in U.S. District Court here, based on Harris' contention that he was denied due process and a fair trial.

Joining attorneys Bon McCourtney and H. E. Ellis of Jonesboro in the latest legal move to halt the execution are attorneys Kenneth Coffelt of Little Rock and John F. Gibson of Dermott.

The man who would have to supervise the Harris execution, O. E. Bishop, new prison superintendent, would be doing the job for the first time.

Bishop, who has witnessed one execution, said Wednesday that capital punishment is not the harshest kind of punishment.

"It just takes a man out of it," Bishop said. "If you really want to punish a man, put him in prison at hard labor for the balance of his life."

Bishop declined to reveal his personal feelings on capital punishment.

Says Welfare Again Used Politically

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller said today that Gov. Orval Faubus is playing politics with the welfare program and it may cause needy citizens to miss out on benefits of the Medicare program.

"I believe he owes an apology to the many thousands of Social Security-welfare recipients in Arkansas," said Rockefeller the Republican candidate for governor.

On Feb. 18, Rockefeller noted, he urged Faubus to provide $3 a month more for needy citizens to use to buy insurance for extra Medicare benefits.

Faubus later announced such an increase, "then callously stated that he had decided on such a course of action months ago," the GOP candidate said.

"This is most unfortunate," Rockefeller said. "If he had announced his decision the moment he made it, many thousands more needy citizens would now be qualified for all benefits in the federal Medicare program and thus fully protected against medical emergencies."

"Now time is running out," Rockefeller said. "These needy citizens have less than a month to qualify for the extra benefits."

"In the last minute rush," Rockefeller said, "I fear that many of them will not sign up because they have not had adequate notice and follow-up by the state."

Rockefeller said Faubus should spare no effort to further inform possible recipients about the program "to make up for his neglect in not announcing this plan earlier."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Police said 9,463 accidents in Arkansas were reported for 1965, a 123 per cent increase over the number reported in 1955.

The agency said in its annual report the percentage increase of motor vehicles in the state was about half the accident increase rate. In 1965, the agency estimated 912,000 cars, trucks and buses were registered, about 62 per cent higher than in 1955.

Controversy in Texas on Registration

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Sparked by a federal court order outlawing the state poll tax, Texas begins a 15-day free voter-registration drive today amid a state-federal controversy.

Some estimates point toward a gain of perhaps 500,000 new voters before the emergency registration period ends May 17.

FBI agents — on orders of U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach and much to the discomfort of state officials — will be watching registrars closely.

"Completely unjustified and unwarranted," said Gov. John Connally, who called the recent special legislative session that wrote a free voter annual registration bill to replace Texas' 64-year-old $1.75 poll tax voting requirement.

Requesting the FBI to monitor the registration of voters in Texas does a great disservice to the people of Texas. A gratuitous insult to the public officials of the state," Connally said.

Said State Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, a Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, "If you have any complaint against Texas, state it in court — don't threaten with the FBI."

Carr said Katzenbach's office also asked for a direct accounting of the registration drive.

"I know of no court order which requires me to report to you for anything Texas does," Carr told Katzenbach in a letter.

During the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m., Fort Smith, Fayetteville, Memphis and Texarkana each reported a trace of rain.

Yankee Go Home Signs in Malaysia

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (AP) — "Yankee go home" posters went up in the northwest Malaysian port of Penang Tuesday in protest against a 24-hour visit by four U.S. Navy destroyers.

Police arrested two men in the act of putting up some of the posters. A number of the anti-American signs bore the symbol of the Leftist Labor Party, a small opposition group.

One of the pressing questions at a closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee appeared likely to revolve around why — with 215,000 Americans already committed to the struggle — the Communists still are able to call the turn on the escalation of hostilities.

McNamara told a news conference Wednesday that if need be the American manpower commitment in Viet Nam could be boosted to 350,000 without ordering Reservists to active duty.

The defense chief said that although there are now about 300,000 U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia, American fighting forces are "fully capable of meeting our commitments" around the world.

McNamara's announcement that another 20,000 men will be sent to Viet Nam came only five days after President Johnson told a news conference: "We do not have on my desk at the moment any unfilled requests" from Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Viet Nam, for more men.

McNamara did not say when the additional 20,000 men will be sent into Viet Nam.

Humphrey told an American Legion legislative dinner Wednesday night that President Johnson is following a middle course between quelling South Viet Nam and resorting to "massive escalation and violence" to win there.

U.S. Sending 20,000 More Men Into War

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told worried senators today that he expects the enemy troop buildup to reach its height in Viet Nam at the end of this year.

Basing his assessment largely on estimates of how big a force the Communists can keep supplied in the face of U.S. air opposition, McNamara used it as a major factor for this conclusion.

"I do not believe that we are facing in Viet Nam an unlimited, open-ended commitment to a major land war in Asia."

McNamara appeared at a closed session to answer questions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee whose probe of administration Southeast Asian policy has been the storm center of debate.

McNamara addressed himself to some of the questions that have been raised in the committee's previous public hearings—such as whether the Vietnam conflict could spread into a war with China.

One of the pressing questions at a closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee appeared likely to revolve around why — with 215,000 Americans already committed to the struggle — the Communists still are able to call the turn on the escalation of hostilities.

Confused About Lobsters?

Q—I'm confused about lobsters. Are there many kinds?

A—To answer your question, we quote the National Fisheries Institute: "Lobsters are salt-water crustaceans found on the ocean bottom from the shore line to the edge of the continental shelf. There are two principal kinds found in the United States: the northern (or Maine) lobster and the rock (or spiny) lobster. The northern lobster is characterized by its large, heavy claws. The rock lobster is distinguished by the many prominent spines (hence the name 'spiny') on its body and legs, and its long, slender antennae."

"The northern lobster is found along the Atlantic coast from Labrador to North Carolina, although most of the United States' catch comes from the Maine and Massachusetts coasts. The rock or spiny lobster occurs in the tropical, subtropical and temperate waters of the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans. In the United States, it is found principally in the waters off Florida and southern California."

"Northern lobsters can be bought live or already boiled, or the cooked meat may be purchased fresh, frozen and canned. Live rock lobsters are available in some parts of Florida and California. Frozen rock-lobster tails are sold throughout the country."

"The French have a name for each species of lobster: homard for the lobster with large claws; langouste for what we call the rock lobster. The Spanish in Europe and in South American countries call their lobster langosta and the tiny one langostina."

Q—Has lobster meat any nutritional value?

A—Yes, definitely. Lobsters supply high-quality proteins, vitamins and minerals, and are low in fats and calories. Those fats present are largely of the polyunsaturated type.

"I don't care WHAT the computer says. I say we're not 'perfectly suited'!"

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Network television's almost-official recipe for eating cake and having cake at the same time has now been made public.

Robert E. Kintner, in his long letter of resignation as NBC's board chairman Friday said in part: "To trade up the quality of nighttime programming, I suggest that there should be greater pre-emption of regular prime-time schedules by special programs and that network managements must be prepared from time to time to sacrifice over-all rating leadership in favor of an increasing number of dramatic entertainment programs dealing with controversial social, economic and political problems."

John C. Schneider, shortly before he was elevated from CBS network president to vice president in charge of broadcasting of the parent CBS organization, said that he thought there was less excitement in television these days and that people were talking about it less. The solution, he said, was to stimulate more interest by presenting special programs — dramatic, documentary and cultural.

The theory, which has been quietly in practice for some time, is to build the big ratings and produce happy sponsors with "Bonanzas" and "Lucy Shows" and "Batman," while breaking the rhythm occasionally with something like "Death of a Salesman," the Lunts in a biographical drama or a recreation of Custer's last stand.

Television, while it is most concerned with reaching a big mass audience with run-of-the-mine shows, still doesn't want to lose completely that smaller group of listeners and viewers that Schneider recently called "the opinion makers."

One program designed to stir up the opinion makers was Friday night's "Sixteen in Webster Groves" which pre-empted a dramatic series. This was a documentary focusing on some of the 16-year-old high school pupils in a prosperous, upper-middle class St. Louis, Mo., suburb where half the families have incomes of more than $10,000.

These were not the sullen youngsters so often studied by television — the slum kids, the drop-outs, the problems. These were teen-agers aiming for college, concerned with their social lives and their parents' opinions of them.

Making good grades, getting along with others and coping with parents seemed to be their deepest concerns. Girls seemed concerned about their dates. Boys worried about getting into college so they could earn a good living later. Charles Kuralt, the narrator, seemed worried that 99 per cent could identify Dick Van Dyke but only 20 per cent knew Ho Chi Minh. He also seemed concerned that these children of affluent, secure and suburban America were growing up with limited vision, without higher purpose or lofty goals.

It was a problem to which one reacted, for it had a real point of view. Interesting, controversial. It started an argument that went on for an hour in my house — and it's a long time since television started anything like that.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Want a meatless main dish that faces up to demands of taste appeal, good nutrition, easy preparation and something different? We have it. Just read on, then step with enthusiasm into your kitchen.

GOLDEN MACARONI LOAF (Serves 6)

1 medium onion, finely chopped
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
1 1/2 cups milk
3 eggs, lightly beaten
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, cooked and drained
1/2 cup chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon thyme

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Meanwhile, saute onion in butter until crisp-tender. Combine in large mixing bowl with bread crumbs, cheese, milk, eggs, peas, pimiento, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and thyme; mix well. Add macaroni; mix again. Turn into well-greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Cover and bake in pan of hot water in 350-degree (moderate) oven 1 hour. Cool 5 minutes. Loosen edges with spatula; unmold onto platter. Garnish with pickle fan, as desired. Serve with your favorite tomato sauce.

Close Vote Concerns Leaders

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — A "squeaker" vote in the House last week has given administration leaders cause for concern over the prospects for pushing costly domestic programs through Congress this year.

It came on a Republican-backed motion to strike from the President's emergency tax bill a provision restoring recent reductions in excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls. The motion lost by a scant 20 votes out of 394 total votes. The margin of victory for the President's forces was 22 votes cast by Republicans against the motion. They were joined by 185 Democrats.

More significant was the fact that 76 Democrats joined 111 Republicans in support of the motion. This was one of the largest defections in some time and it came on the first major test vote of 1966 on an administration measure.

What has the President's congressional leaders worried is that the tax bill was labeled as a defense measure — its purpose was to raise money to help pay for the cost of the war in Viet Nam.

If they can win by only 20 votes on a proposal so closely related to the war, some administration leaders are asking themselves, what will happen when the chips are down on a purely domestic proposition?

House Republicans already have served public notice that they will fight all new and costly domestic programs which they consider nonessential, and they expect lots of help from conservative Democrats.

So long as the fighting in Viet Nam continues to drain heavily on federal revenues, the Republicans insist, nonessential domestic spending must be held down to prevent inflation.

Most Republicans consider some of the President's "Great Society" programs as strictly nonessential. They apply that label to some of the existing programs and some of the proposed measures.

Republicans hope to make inflation, or the threat of inflation, a major issue in their bid to pick up seats in the congressional elections next November.

If the danger continues, they plan to blame the Democrats. If it lessens, they will claim the credit.

Perhaps the first real test of the domestic budget cutters' strength will come when the House considers Johnson's request for $30 million for rent subsidies and $13 million to finance the Teachers Corps.

Mao May Not Be Leader in China Now

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's internal propaganda machine hammers so unrelentingly on the theme of Mao Tse-tung's Marxist-Leninist sanctity these days that it suggests the Peking leader has given up active direction of party and government affairs.

As an extravagant legend of Mao replaces his physical presence in public, there are signs of pressure on the top leaders of the politburo from the younger party elements. The present propaganda campaign seems to have something to do with this. Perhaps it is a weapon to keep impatient lower echelon elements in check.

The last prominent mention of Mao being seen in public was Nov. 24, and then it was simply at a reception at his home for Anna Louise Strong, the American leftist writer now residing in Peking, on her 80th birthday.

No mention was made in the Peking press of an observance of Mao's 72nd birthday Dec. 26. But for more than a year, the propaganda has been building a cult of worship for Mao as the giver of all Marxist-Leninist wisdom. This campaign is continuing and growing.

Since mid-1964, according to a Soviet report, Chinese Communists have been singing their own version of the Red anthem — the Internationale — with lines like these:

"The sky is reddening in the east. The sun is rising. Mao Tse-tung has appeared to China. He cares about the happiness of people. He is the savior of the people."

Peking seeks to impress all Chinese that they must be guided in all things by "Mao Tse-tung's thinking." Mao's thinking, they are told, is a "brilliant illumination" which brought to mankind "titanic changes never before seen in history." His leadership has been "brilliant and correct."

The younger party element, men in their 50s who are not veterans of the early party days or of such exploits as Mao's fabled long march of the 1930s, can hardly be suppressed much longer.

There are now 16 members of the ruling politburo. It has admitted no new members since May 1958, and since then four have died and one was purged. The rest are of advanced age.

This inner group gives the appearance of being a collection of equals under Mao, a self-perpetuating hierarchy. But this too leadership soon in the nature of things must start dying out.

The campaign keyed to Mao's thinking may be the result of some realistic thinking along such lines. It leaves the impression that the aging leadership is attempting to insure that left to their own devices the younger generation will not soften and go the way of the Soviet Communist party, which China accuses of turning its back on world revolution.

A Fortune in Uplift

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The feminine figure has been called "the form divine." But nature is capricious and many of us weren't endowed with even a reasonable facsimile thereof.

But every gal did get her rightful share of vanity. And since the beginning of civilization we have attempted to re-shape nature's gifts into lines more to our liking.

Way back when Cleopatra was spying on Caesar from behind a pyramid, she was wearing reeds to take care of an occasional bulge or two. Even her ancestors wore tight, narrow bands as supporting devices for the bosom.

Wasp-waisted Catherine of France and Elizabeth I of England didn't get that way through nature's loving hands. They wore corsets with steel plates. In fact, Catherine's little steel waist-cincher became such a fashion favorite that it literally squeezed the life out of many women of her era and was finally banned by Henry IV.

It wasn't until 1900 that the bra, as an item separated from the corset, appeared. And it was called a corset waist.

Then in the flapper era the bosom had a setback. In the early '20s women began to wear bras that were nothing short of tight binders. How else could a 38-C look boyishly flat?

And it was then, 43 years ago, that Mrs. Ida Rosenthal, a petite dressmaker in New York City, decided the time had come to do something about bringing back the form divine.

"Nature made women with a bosom," she said. "So why fight nature?"

This enterprising, 4-foot-10 dynamo applied ingenuity and a pair of scissors to create simple bras with form and uplift which she gave free to her clients with the dresses she made for them.

"I explained that the bras made the dress fit better," she said.

Did the trick work? In less than seven years she gave up making dresses, and the bra business as we know it today was on its way.

Mrs. Rosenthal's marriage and her business venture were a perfect blend. While her husband, William, a sculptor and artist, concentrated on design, she handled the financial and selling end of the business. But each looked in on the territory of the other. Today she is known as "Mrs. Maidenform," for Ida is the lady who gave us the bras we "dream" in.

Today at 80 she is as lively as a discotheque. Every morn-

Petite Mrs. Ida Rosenthal, at 80, is the young-at-heart chairman of Maidenform, a multimillion dollar company dedicated to the purpose of beautifying the feminine form. Over 43 years ago in the era of the "boyish," bosomed flapper she introduced the uplift bra. No need to ask if it caught on.

ing she can be seen sprightly leaving her limousine for her office at the firm's Manhattan headquarters.

"I do a little bit of everything—finance, selling, travel—."

One of her travel ventures was a trip to her native Russia as the first American woman to visit that country on a cultural exchange basis for the soft goods industry. This was just two years ago and Russia had better prepare for a different kind of revolution than the type it's accustomed to.

"Russian women don't wear girdles," she told me. "A few stores sell them but they're girdles we were making 40 years ago—a piece of cloth with buttons and no stretch."

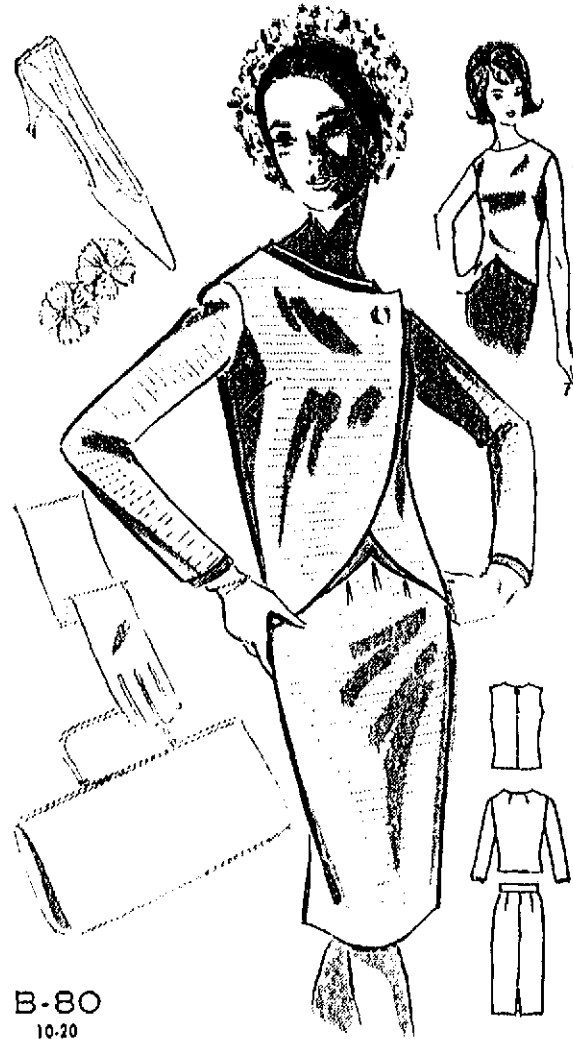

"Even bras are made of rayon satin, completely without elasticity and fastened with buttons instead of hooks."

Mrs. Rosenthal is of the opinion that the Soviet women need help badly when it comes to underpinnings. She is willing to come to their rescue. And this time it shouldn't take her seven years to shape up things.

This little lady even put bras on pigeons. Among its many contributions to the war effort during World War II, Maidenform made pigeon vests (peculiarly bra-like) for "pigeons in uniform." These vests were created for the security and safety of the little messengers. The vest-wearing passengers were attached to paratroopers. The specially treated vests of porous fabric to allow for breathing were adjustable. Will the pigeon with the B cup please fly up?

Well, no matter the fashion—flapper, sweater girl, or just neat and trim—Mrs. Rosenthal's dream bras are sure to help us keep "in."

Australian Meat Balls Taste Great

by Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Australians are vital people. We lunched recently in New York with Victoria, the most beautifully mannered kangaroo we ever broke bread with; Mrs. Daphne Dobbins of the Sydney Morning Herald; H. C. Mendies, the senior Australian Trade Commissioner; and our lusty hosts, the makers of Foster's Australian lager beer. They reminded us that their country is best known for its wool, tennis players and beer. During the luncheon at the Tavern on the Green, Victoria restricted herself exclusively to rose petals.

Among the hors d'oeuvres were meat balls with a "Down Under" accent. We asked Edward Zwaaf, director of the Tavern, for the secret of those magically flavored meat balls. Here is his answer, just in case you plan to invite a kangaroo or Australian friends to your next buffet party:

AUSTRALIAN BUFFET MEAT BALLS (Serves 8)

2 cups beef broth, well-seasoned
2 pounds ground sirloin steak

Salt
Freshly ground pepper

1 clove garlic, finely minced (if desired)

Flour, for light dusting

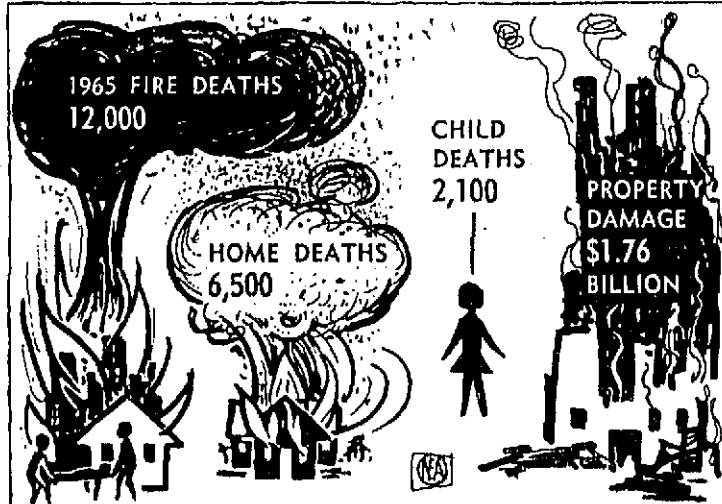

Butter or margarine, for browning

1/2 cup heavy cream

1 bottle beer

Roux, to thicken

A good beef broth is essential. To make, use a canned consomme or broth simmered with a bit of garlic salt or powder, an onion, carrot, a stalk of celery and a few sprigs of parsley. Two bouillon cubes with 2 cups of water may be used with the vegetables cooked in the broth.

FIRE'S TOLL—Newschart points up the price paid in lives and property for fires in the United States during 1965. More than half the deaths occurred in private homes and a third of these were children, according to the National Fire Protection Association statistics. Property damage included $1.45 billion to buildings and contents and $308 million in aircraft, ship, motor vehicle and forest fires.

MEAT BALLS AND KANGAROOS, both Australian.

move meat balls; strain sauce. Taste sauce and add salt and pepper, if desired. Return meat balls to sauce in a chafing dish or other serving dish. Serve with noodles.

Note: Roux is a mixture of equal parts fat (usually butter or margarine) and flour used as a thickening agent. Prepare in the oven or on the range surface. For a light roux, cook until the mixture just starts to turn golden; for a brown roux, cook until it is medium brown in color. Stir while cooking to insure an even color. May be made in quantity and kept at hand in the refrigerator.

The sauce may be thickened with a mixture of 1 teaspoon corn starch and 2 tablespoons water, desired.

4 Nations Prove Dollar Good as Gold

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The dollar is as good as gold, the government assures us. And Spain, Belgium, Austria and especially France are in a good position to prove it.

They traded more dollars for U.S. gold last year than all other nations — more than $1.21 billion worth. This and other gold sales reduced U.S. stocks to about $13.8 billion at the start of the year, a net reduction of $1.66 billion during 1965.

But despite this further drain on U.S. gold — stocks stood at $21.6 billion in 1949 — government officials are optimistic that the reduction in gold reserves can be halted. And the key to the question is the U.S. balance of payments.

Bringing the balance of payments deficit into equilibrium — $2.0 billion either side of zero — and the drain on gold will eventually stop, is the reasoning.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said most of the gold sales last year came during the first six months and a steady decline thereafter suggests "a healthy state of foreign confidence in the dollar."

And Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor said the determination of Americans to end balance of payments deficit — the difference between U.S. spending abroad and foreign spending in this country — has renewed confidence in the dollar.

"It is the dollar that is as good as gold — yesterday, today and tomorrow," Connor said in citing the dollar as the world's leading medium of exchange.

This is how the United States saw a $1.66-billion reduction in its gold stock last year:

- $259 million went to the International Monetary Fund but this also increased U.S. drawing rights on the fund.
- $113 million was sold to domestic industrial users for such things as jewelry and fillings for teeth.
- The rest was purchased by foreign countries with dollars but Fowler said $1.1 billion of this came during the first six months of the year and only $177 million between July and December.

France, in line with a policy announced one year ago, cashed in the most dollars for gold — $880 million. Following were Spain at $180 million, Austria at $91 million and Belgium at $83 million.

The Spain, Austria and Belgium figures were for nine months only but a Treasury spokesman said today the fourth quarter sales to those countries were negligible.

The gold drain began after World War II when U.S. dollars were sent overseas to help the recovery of war-torn countries.

Since the United States guarantees conversion of official dollar holdings for gold, every dollar which goes abroad represents a potential drain on gold stocks.

The only way to end the drain is to stop the net outflow of dollars by bringing equilibrium to the balance of payments.

The Johnson administration one year ago began a voluntary program among the nation's businessmen and bankers to stem private investment of U.S. dollars abroad. Connor and Fowler said this program was the major reason why last year's deficit was only $1.3 billion, less than half the deficits for the previous two years and the smallest since 1957 when the United States had a $520-million surplus.

Goal of the administration is equilibrium this year.

If this is done and the balance remains in equilibrium — Connor has already asked businessmen to come up with a long-range program to insure this — the drain on U.S. gold stocks will eventually cease, the Treasury feels.

But the fly in the ointment could be the Viet Nam war. The U.S. buildup there will send more dollars abroad to become potential drains on gold stocks.
